Andy Warhol x Flavor Paper Selfie on EZ Papes

Designed and Manufactured in Brooklyn, NY by Flavor Paper

DESCRIPTION

Andy Warhol continually reinvented who he was both as an artist and an icon to the public, and he knew the importance of documenting his life well before the internet age. From the 1960s through the 1980s, Warhol used himself as the subject of his artwork. Be it photo booth self-portraits of the early 60s, a television show on MTV in the early 80s "Andy Warhol's Fifteen Minutes", or his final series of self-portraits in 1986 known as "fright wig," Warhol understood that his legacy and public image were just as valuable as his famous silk screen artworks. Today, Warhol's personal image is as recognizable as it was during his lifetime. Selfie contains over 100 self-portraits taken by the original King of the Selfie, capturing the entire span of his career and his many personas from a young, aspiring artist, to drag wearing Drella. Selfie is printed on EZ Papes, a pre-pasted, no fuss wallpaper which can easily be adhered or removed from a wall without damage.

EZ Papes quantities of 6 rolls or less are generally in stock and ship within 5 business days. Quantities over 6 rolls ship based on current production lead time
